

Mulayam seeks votes for Aparna

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

Samajwadi Party patriarch Mulayam Singh Yadav on Wednesday made an emotional appeal to voters to elect his daughter-in-law Aparna Yadav who is contesting from Lucknow Cantonment Assembly constituency which goes to poll on February 19.

Campaigning for Aparna on Wednesday, Mulayam addressed a meeting near Carriage and Wagon Workshop in Alambagh area of the state capital. "It is a question of my prestige. Please ensure the victory of my daughter-in-law. When people supported the party, I made Akhilesh Yadav the Chief Minister of UP," Mulayam said. In his hour-long speech, the SP patriarch took the name of Akhilesh Yadav only once.

In an apparent appeal to Muslim voters of Lucknow Cantonment constituency, Mulayam Singh Yadav said, "In 1990, I had assured Muslims that my government would protect the Babri mosque whether the government survived or was toppled and I protected the mosque. For that, I was compelled to order police firing on kar sewaks to protect the mosque."

"Whenever the community faced any trouble, the SP government helped it. Whether Samajwadi Party forms the government or not after this election, the problems of Muslims will be addressed on a priority," Mulayam said.

Apparently expressing his frustration over recent events that culminated in his being stripped of the post of SP national president, Mulayam said, "Samajwadi Party won the mandate of the people in 2012 Assembly polls on my name. Yet, I proposed the name of Akhilesh for the office of Chief Minister. The rest of the story is known to you."

Refusing to elaborate, the SP patriarch reiterated that the ownership (khasra) of the party was still with him while others who were running the party just had the khatauni (tenancy rights). Yadav Senior stressed that the SP never discriminated among the people on any ground and never made any false promises to them.

"I announce that all promises made would be fulfilled at any cost. Even if the Samajwadi Party is unable to form government, the promises made will be fulfilled," he said. This was the third meeting addressed by Mulayam Singh Yadav in the seven-phase UP Assembly polls. Earlier, he had addressed two election meetings in Jaswantnagar constituency of Etawah where his younger brother Shivpal Singh Yadav is seeking re-election for the fifth term from the same seat. Criticising Prime Minister Narendra Modi for not fulfilling any of the promises made during the 2014 Lok Sabha polls, Mulayam said with a smile, "If you cannot deposit Rs 15 lakh in the bank accounts of the poor, you should have at least deposited Rs 2 lakh to fulfil part of the promise."

Spectator killed in brawl during baseball match

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

A spectator was knifed to death on a petty issue during a baseball match in Sarvodaya Nagar on Wednesday evening exposing police utter failure in controlling the steeply deteriorating law and order in the state capital. As per reports, Rahul Dwivedi of Lar Road in Deoria was living at a house on rent with his room mate Sooraj. He was jobless after quitting job at United Spirit.

Around 1.30 am, he borrowed Sooraj's bike and reached the house of his friend Ajay Pratap Singh who is employed in the insurance sector. Both later reached Sarvodaya Nagar embankment to watch a baseball match which was going on there.

Rahul had a verbal spat with a person, identified as Faizal, who was allegedly in a drunken state and was kicking dust in the air. Some onlookers intervened in the matter and the dispute subsided. Later, Rahul went to a corner of the playground where he got busy in watching people playing cards. In the meantime, Faizal reached near Rahul and attacked him with a base ball bat and later stabbed him with a knife. The incident created a panic among onlookers and they ran away from the scene to avoid police interrogation. Around 5.21 pm, Rahul's friend Sooraj got a call about the incident and he was asked to reach Trauma Centre. In the meantime, the residents rushed Rahul to Trauma Centre where he was declared "brought dead". Police are interrogating Ajay and some of his friends.

ASP, Trans Gomti, Durgesh Kumar said Rahul had visited the spot to see the ongoing match when he was attacked.

He said suspect Faizal was being hunted by the police. Denying reports that the victim was attacked by base ball bat, the ASP said the victim had a single injury caused by some sharp-edged weapon. "He was taken to Sadbhawana Hospital but as the doctors did not attend the case seeing the victim in a critical condition his friends Ajay, Sonu and Kamran rushed him to Trauma Centre where he was pronounced dead," he said.

Contrary to police claim, the commuters said Rahul was attacked by players after he picked up a fight with them. "Rahul entered the field and came close to one of the players. This snowballed in a verbal spat and later he was attacked. Doctors at Trauma Centre said that Rahul had suffered injuries on his head besides wounds due to stabbing on his body parts.

Employer held for maid's death

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

A police team nabbed the accused on Wednesday in connection with a case in which a minor girl was found hanging at her employer's house in Thakurganj.

Sajjad Rizvi of Hussainabad in Thakurganj had employed the girl to work as a maid at his house two years back. He was accused of meting out inhumane treatment to the girl and even was accused of having an evil designs for her. Following the atrocities, she had quit the job but Sajjad forced her relative to bring her back. On Monday night, she was found hanging in the bedroom at Sajjad's flat.

Faced with a strong public protest for favouring Sajjad, who is a builder and interior decorator by profession, the police were forced to lodge a case of abetment to suicide against him on Tuesday.

But the residents alleged that the police action was 'hollow' aimed to favour the builder and the autopsy report was 'doctored'. They assembled in a huge number demanding immediate arrest of Sajjad and re-conduct the autopsy.

"Some persons with vested interests had misled the family that the autopsy report was scripted and incited them to demand re-conduct the autopsy. We talked to the family members and told them that the autopsy was conducted by a panel of doctors including a woman doctor. We also explained the family that the process of the autopsy was videographed and it would be made available to any medical board which might examine the same as many times as it wished," ASP, West, Jaiprakash said.

He said the police arrested Sajjad as demanded by kin and relatives of the victim. "The autopsy had ascertained hanging as a cause of death and no ante-mortem injuries were detected in the autopsy," he said.

Ruling out the possibility of any foul play, the ASP said Sajjad had been booked under section 306 of IPC (a person forcing someone to end his or her life). "The family's allegations, if true, will be proved in the court itself," he explained.

Residents alleged that Sajjad's torturing the girl was a common thing that they heard every day when she talked to them. "She had left the job due to the torture but had to make a comeback under pressure. His arrest though had contained the public ire but the kin were yet to be convinced that justice would be done to the minor girl because Sajjad was a wealthy man and he had a good rapport with the local police," they said.

The minor girl was being brought up by her grandmother after her father died some time back and her mother moved to another place with some person. "She was living like an orphaned child. Her grandmother could not afford to bear the expenses," the residents.

Sahu murder case: Accused in 4-day police remand

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

Having failed to recover the revolver used in the Shrawan Sahu murder case, the Lucknow police sought four-day remand of the accused. The police had arrested Satyam, Aman and a crony Ajay Patel last Friday. Later, two others — Rohit aka Sonu Mishra — and Vivek Mishra who facilitated a bike for the crime were arrested.

However, the recovery of the revolver used in the murder case has become a Herculean task for the investigators. "The court has allowed four-day police custody remand and we will interrogate the accused to recover the revolver," ASP (West) Jaiprakash said.

Sources, however, said that the police had no clue about the weapon as yet. "The family had demanded a CBI probe and a PIL is pending in court. The police are playing safe and waiting for the court's order on a CBI probe. After a probe is ordered, the onus will be on the CBI to recover the crime weapon," they said.

They said that the police had a hunch that the miscreants might provide wrong information about the weapon to avoid sustained interrogation and it may dent police credentials if the same was proven wrong in future. "The weapon used in the murder is a clinching evidence to corroborate miscreants' role in the crime. The charge-sheet against miscreants will get weak in case the police failed to recover the murder weapon," they opined.

"THE FAMILY HAD DEMANDED A CBI PROBE AND A PIL IS PENDING IN COURT. THE POLICE ARE PLAYING SAFE AND WAITING FOR THE COURT'S ORDER ON A CBI PROBE. AFTER A PROBE IS ORDERED, THE ONUS WILL BE ON THE CBI TO RECOVER THE CRIME WEAPON"

They said the police had recovered blood-stained bullets from Sahu's body. "After the recovery of the weapon, the police will go for a ballistic test to ascertain if the weapon was used to fire the fatal shots on Sahu on the fateful day. A confirmation will substantiate the role of the miscreants," they said. Serious lapses had surfaced after the arrest of the accused in the case. On February 1, Satyam and Aman reached the house of their aide Ajay in Indra Nagar where they changed their clothes and left for Charbagh on the same bike which was sans registration number. But the cops who did intensive combing in Lucknow failed to get a whiff of their movement. The miscreants later left for New Delhi and were arrested ten days after the murder case. Sahu was peppered with bullets outside his shop around 8.30 pm on February 1 while he was preparing to put down the shutters. He had been getting life threats from arch rival Aquil — a small time goon and stooge of Crime Branch sleuths.

In connivance with Crime Branch sleuths, Aquil had unsuccessfully tried to frame Sahu in a fake contract killing case in Para. He later surrendered in court on January 27 when the unholy nexus of Aquil and Crime Branch sleuths was exposed and the police started to hunt him.

Aquil had killed Sahu's elder son Ajay in 2013 and was sent to jail after marathon efforts by Sahu. He, however, earned enmity with Aquil for vigorously pursuing his son's murder case and lost his life in the due course.
