

Clinton 'confident' over new FBI email probe

PTI ■ WASHINGTON

Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Clinton says she is "confident" a new FBI probe linked to her emails will not change its original finding that she should not be prosecuted and wants the agency to immediately explain the inquiry to the American people. "We don't know the facts, which is why we are calling on lease all of the information that it has. Even Director (James) Comey noted that this new information may not be significant. So let's get it out," Clinton, 69, told reporters. During the rare press conference, which lasted a little over five minutes, Clinton said that it is incumbent on the FBI to clarify the issue.

"It is incumbent upon the FBI to tell us what they are taking about. Because right now, your guess is as good as mine. And I don't think that's good enough," she said when asked if she has spoken with her close aide Huma Abedin, the center of the controversy.

The FBI decided to re-open the case after it found some emails on the electronics device of Abedin's husband Anthony Weiner.

The FBI has not said what kind of email was found on this device. "We are 11 days out from perhaps the most important national election of our lifetimes. Voting is already under way in our country. So the American people deserve to get the full and complete facts immediately. The director himself has said he doesn't know whether the e-mails referenced in his letter are significant or not. I'm confident whatever they are will not change the conclusion reached in July," Clinton said. "Therefore it's imperative that the Bureau explain this issue in question, whatever it is, without any delay.

I look forward to moving forward to focus on the important challenges facing the American people, winning on November 8, and working with all Americans to build a better future for our country," she said.

Clinton said she and her campaign have not been contacted by anyone from the FBI on this issue. Leading in almost all major polls, Clinton exuded confidence that this is unlikely to have an impact in the election results.

"I think people a long time ago made up their minds about the e-mails. I think that's factored into what people think. And now they're choosing a president," she said in response to a question.

Clinton campaign doubts FBI motive, seeks more information

Washington: Stunned by FBI's decision to re-open its investigation into Hillary Clinton's email scandal, her campaign has raised serious doubt over the agency's move just days before the presidential elections and sought more information about the probe. "It is extraordinary that we would see something like this just 11 days out from a presidential election. The Director owes it to the American people to immediately provide the full details of what he is now examining. We are confident this will not produce any conclusions different from the one the FBI reached in July," the Clinton Campaign chairman John Podesta said in a strongly worded statement last afternoon.

The Clinton Campaign was taken aback when it learned from the US media that the FBI Director James Comey has written a letter to top Congressional leaders informing that it has learned of the existence of emails that appear to be pertinent its investigation in to the use of private server and personal emails by Clinton, when she was the Secretary of State from 2009-2012, in the first term of the Obama Administration.

"In connection with an unrelated case, the FBI has learned of the existence of emails that appear to be pertinent to this investigation," Comey wrote in a letter to several House committee chairmen. Comey was briefed on the issue on Thursday.

"I am writing to inform you that the investigative team briefed me on this yesterday, and I agreed that the FBI should take appropriate investigative steps designed to allow investigators to review these emails to determine whether they contain classified information, as well as to assess their importance to our investigation," he said. Neither the State Department or the White House knew about the latest move by the FBI, until the letter was leaked to the media by a Republican leader in the Congress who was one of its recipient. However, Clinton's Republican rival Donald Trump, who has been trailing in the elections, declared the development as a "Big Day" and bigger than "Watergate" scandal.

It took a few hours for Clinton Campaign to respond to the FBI's decision, which more than three months ago had determined that there is no need to file a legal case against the former Secretary of State. "Upon completing this investigation more than three months ago, FBI Director Comey declared no reasonable prosecutor would move forward with a case like this and added that it was not even a close call," Podesta said.

"In the months since, Donald Trump and his Republican allies have been baselessly second-guessing the FBI and, in both public and private, browbeating the career officials there to revisit their conclusion in a desperate attempt to harm Hillary Clinton's presidential campaign," he alleged. "FBI Director Comey should immediately provide the American public more information than is contained in the letter he sent to eight Republican committee chairmen," Podesta demanded.

There has been no comment from FBI so far. "Already, we have seen characterisations that the FBI is 'reopening' an investigation but Comey's words do not match that characterisation," the Clinton Campaign chairman said in an apparent accusation to the media about allegedly twisting the story.

"Director Comey's letter refers to emails that have come to light in an unrelated case, but we have no idea what those emails are and the Director himself notes they may not even be significant," Podesta said as political pundits and analyst conceded that the latest FBI move would have an adverse impact in the remaining 11 days of the presidential elections, which is scheduled for November 8. Imran tells party workers to prepare for showdown with Nawaz Sharif

Lahore (PTI): As police detained more than 600 activists of Pakistan Tehreek-i-Insaf in different parts of Punjab province, party chief Imran Khan today directed his workers to escape arrest and reach Islamabad on November 2 for a final showdown with the Nawaz Sharif government. Cricketer-turned-politician Khan also advised party supporters to travel in groups and instead of taking the main route where police is stationed they should opt for hidden routes to arrive at the site. Earlier, the party had planned different rallies on Saturday in Islamabad and other parts of the country to motivate the people to reach Islamabad. A day after clashes between PTI workers and police in Islamabad and Rawalpindi, the Punjab police have closed Peshawar-Islamabad motorway and Attock Bridge by placing containers to stop the PTI workers from reaching the capital on November 2 when Khan and his supporters have a plan to lock down the city from the rest of the country. In Khyber Pakhtunkhwa where the PTI is in power the interior ministry has clarified that the federal government would treat the chief minister and other members of the provincial assembly as "ordinary citizens" if they dare to reach Islamabad. Khan has given to options to Prime Minister Sharif either to resign or present himself for accountability for having off-shore holdings revealed in the Panama Papers. Khan said "This is Nawaz Sharif's dictatorship, not a democracy. We will show Nawaz Sharif on November 2 what democracy is", PTI leader and opposition leader in Punjab Assembly Mehmoodur Rashid said on Saturday the police have arrested more than 600 party workers in Punjab alone. Police will not be able to stop the workers from reaching Islamabad on Nov 2," he said.

Li asks Cabinet to follow Xi as 'core leader'

PTI ■ BEIJING

Days after ruling CPC elected President Xi Jinping as its "core leader" equating with him with "Chairman" Mao Zedong, Premier Li Keqiang asked China's cabinet and government departments to act in line with Xi's new role and decisions of the party to ensure discipline. Li has called upon the leading party group of the State Council, China's cabinet, and various departments to keep their thoughts, politics and acts in line with the Communist Party of China (CPC) with "Comrade Xi" as the core, state-run Xinhua news agency reported on Friday.

Speaking at a meeting, Li asked the official departments to strictly follow the Party's political discipline and regulations, improve supervision, resist corruption and withstand risks, and foster a team of civil servants that have firm beliefs, obey rules and are diligent and honest, the report said. State Council's leading party group and various units under the cabinet were also told to become more aware of the need to uphold political integrity, keep in mind the bigger picture, follow the CPC as the core of the Chinese leadership and act consistently with CPC Central Committee policy, it said.

"They were also told to voluntarily conform to the CPC Central Committee with Xi as the core in thoughts, politics and acts, and more resolutely safeguard the authority of the CPC Central Committee with Xi as the core," Li who is the second ranking leader in the party said. His comments after the plenary meeting of the party, which is a policy making body in a four-day meeting that ended on October 27 elevated the status of Xi as "core" leader. Only Mao, reformist leader Deng Xiaoping and his successor, Jiang Zemin had similar status in the party which was founded in 1921.

Iraq forces launch operation to cut Mosul off from Syria

Al Qayyarah (Iraq): Iraqi paramilitary forces launched an operation on Saturday to retake Tal Afar from the Islamic State group, opening a new front in the nearly two-week-old offensive to recapture jihadist-held Mosul. Forces from the Hashed al-Shaabi, a paramilitary umbrella organisation dominated by Iran-backed Shiite militias, have largely been on the sidelines since the launch of the Mosul operation. And the western approach to Mosul, a route on which Tal Afar is located, is the only one where ground forces, which have advanced on the city from the north, east and south, are not yet deployed.

"The operation aims to cut supplies between Mosul and Raqa and tighten the siege of (IS) in Mosul and liberate Tal Afar," Hashed spokesman Ahmed al-Assadi told AFP, referring to IS's main strongholds in Iraq and Syria. Assadi said the operation was launched from the Sin al-Dhaban area south of Mosul and aimed to retake the towns of Hatra and Tal Abta as well as Tal Afar. The drive toward Tal Afar could bring the fighting perilously close to the ancient city of Hatra, a UNESCO world heritage site that has already been vandalised by IS. Though it was not mentioned by name, the operation may also pass near the ruins of Nimrud, another archaeological site that has previously been attacked by IS.

The involvement of Shiite militias in the Mosul operation has been a source of contention, although some of the Hashed's top commanders insist they do not plan to enter the largely Sunni city. Iraqi Kurds and Sunni Arab politicians have opposed their involvement, as has Turkey, which has a military presence east of Mosul despite repeated demands by Baghdad for the forces to be withdrawn. Relations between the Hashed and the US-led coalition fighting IS are also tense, but the paramilitaries enjoy widespread support among members of Iraq's Shiite majority. Tal Afar was a Shiite-majority town of mostly ethnic Turks before the Sunni extremists of IS overran it in 2014, and its recapture is a main goal of Shiite militia forces.

AFP ■ LONDON

Bob Dylan has finally Bacceted his Nobel prize for literature, the Swedish Academy that awards it has said, breaking his silence on the win that he said left him "speechless". Asked "if I accept the prize? Of course", the US singer-songwriter said in a call to the academy this week, around a fortnight after he was named laureate on October 13.

"The news about the Nobel Prize left me speechless," he told the academy's permanent secretary, Sara Danius. "I appreciate the honour so much." Dylan had not responded to repeated phone calls made by the academy following the prize announcement, nor had he made any public statement, prompting one academy member to call him

"impolite and arrogant". The academy said on Saturday that it had not yet been decided yet if Dylan would visit Stockholm to pick up his award. Sweden's King Carl XVI Gustaf usually hands out prizes and cheques to all the Nobel winners at a banquet on December 10. Asked in an interview with Britain's Daily Telegraph newspaper published on Friday if he would turn up, he said: "Absolutely."

If it's at all possible," Dylan told the paper that the award was "amazing, incredible," saying: "It's hard to believe."

India abstains from voting on nuclear weapons ban at UN

PTI ■ UNITED NATIONS

A UN General Assembly Committee has adopted a resolution to launch negotiations next year on a new treaty outlawing nuclear weapons, even as India abstained saying it is not convinced the move can lead to a comprehensive instrument on nuclear disarmament.

The General Assembly's First Committee, which deals with disarmament and international security, adopted the draft resolution on Friday on nuclear disarmament negotiations.

Through the resolution, the General Assembly would reiterate that the universal objective of taking forward multilateral nuclear disarmament negotiations remains the achievement and maintenance of a world without nuclear weapons. The resolution emphasises the importance of addressing issues related to nuclear weapons in a comprehensive, inclusive, interactive and constructive manner, for the advancement of multilateral nuclear disarmament negotiations. It also decided to convene in 2017 a United Nations conference to negotiate a legally binding instrument to prohibit nuclear weapons, leading towards their total elimination.

जलवा-ए-डॉक्टर

राजधानी में एम्प्लॉयमेंट का समाग्राण करने वाले पहले बड़े सरकारी अस्पताल वाले डॉक्टर साहब का जलवा अस्पताल से सेवानिवृत्त होने के बाद भी कायम रहा। जलवा इस तरह का समाजवादी सरकारी में यश भारती सम्मान से भी नवाजा गया। पहले तो डॉक्टर साहब अस्पताल के निदेशक के पद पर जसे रहे। उनके जलवा का आलम यह कि उन्हें निदेशक पद पर दो बार सेवा विस्तार भी दिया गया। उसके बाद डॉक्टर साहब सेवानिवृत्त हुए तो उन्हें अस्पताल और संस्थान के विलय के बाद अस्पताल का सलाहकार बना दिया गया। फिर था था। कुछ ही दिनों में साहब प्रदेश के मुखिया की विशेष सेवा में तैनात हो गए। विशेष सेवा में आने के बाद मुखिया के पूरे परिवार को सेहत के साथ ही अन्य मामलों में भी सलाह का विभागा दिया गया। सरकारी का कार्यकाल अंतिम दौर में पहुंचा तो डॉक्टर साहब ने थोक के भाव में बंदे यश भारती सम्मान को सूची में स्थान हासिल कर लिया।
